

“Freedom of speech means freedom for those who you despise, and freedom to express the most despicable views. It also means that the government cannot pick and choose which expressions to authorize and which to prevent.”

Section 13 of the Hate Speech Act Must Never Be Re-invoked

This is the full morning session of the "Hate Speech Hearings" of June 4, 2019. Mark Steyn, John Robson, and Lindsay Shephard are the speakers against the motion of reinstatement of Section 13 of the Hate Speech Act back into the criminal code. The each gave an excellent presentation and Mark Steyn was not to be bullied in the Q and A session!!

<https://d.tube/#!/v/vladtepesblog/ncl5u2n6>

Mark Steyn: "Nothing going on in Canada justifies the return of" Section 13

Author Mark Steyn was in Ottawa testifying before a Justice Committee exploring the reinstatement of Section 13, the internet censorship provision of Canada's Human Rights Act that was deemed unconstitutional in 2013 and repealed by the Harper government. Right after he testified this morning, we talked about his experience testifying before today's committee, and he explained why he still believes that Section 13 and other censorship measures do nothing to keep Canadians safe, and in fact leave society worse off.

<https://www.therebel.media/news-mark-steyn-interview-section-13-hate-speech-canada-testimony-david-menzies>

"Ultimately, free speech is hate speech and hate speech is free speech. It is the speech you hate; the speech you revile - the alternative to free speech is approved speech and that necessarily means approved by whom? Once it becomes speech approved by the state and speech approved by formal bodies, it effectively means speech approved by the powerful."

~ Mark Steyn ~

Return of the Biovator by Mark Steyn

The biggest threat to free speech is "the malign alliance between government and high-tech," warned Steyn. He described as chilling a recent meeting Prime Minister Justin Trudeau participated in with French President Emmanuel Macron and British Prime Minister Theresa May sitting opposite the heads of Facebook, Twitter, Google, and Apple – "six woke billionaires" who "regulate the opinion" of billions of people. "This is far more of a threat than some "pimple-faced neo-Nazi" writing on the Internet "from his mother's basement in the prairies," said Steyn.

Committee erupts after Tory MP tells Muslim witness he 'should be ashamed'

"Mr. Suri, I take great umbrage with your defamatory comments to try to link conservatism with violent extremist attacks. They have no foundation, they're defamatory, and they diminish your credibility as a witness," Michael Cooper said. The Conservative MP then read into the record a passage from Tarrant's 74-page manifesto — which has been banned in New Zealand. In the passage, Tarrant is quoted as saying the social and political values of China are close to his own and that he rejects 'conservatism'.

Canada: Conservative leader Andrew Scheer throws Tory MP out of Commons committee after confrontation with Muslim witness Scheer's efforts to calm the "Islamophobia" brigade under what was clearly (and understandably) upsetting conditions for Cooper, just wasn't enough to appease (according to the CBC) "the Muslim man who was the target of an angry confrontation by Conservative MP Michael Cooper during a committee appearance". Faisal Khan Suri is now calling for Michael Cooper to be booted from Caucus. Suri thinks that "the punishment meted out by leader Andrew Scheer isn't enough." Suri proclaimed: "Such a member should never be part of caucus and should never retain his position".

Urgent Call to Action!

Targeting Section 13 is a follow up to Motion M-103 in restricting criticism of Islam. The enclosed letter is self-explanatory and very serious. The move to impose further restrictions on speech is exactly what has taken place throughout Europe and the UK and will devastate Canada. The attack against MP Michael Cooper is straight out of the play book to shut down opposition to this threat and we must provide him with support.

Canada fights “hate”, while jihadist sign threatening “massacre of Jews” flaunted at Toronto al-Quds Day rally

A sign alluding to a historical massacre of Jews was carried openly at the annual al-Quds Day hate fest in downtown Toronto ...The sign depicts the Dome of the Rock in Jerusalem and warns that, ‘The last Khayber is ready,’ an allusion to an ancient battle in which a Muslim army defeated and slaughtered Jews in the Arabian Peninsula. This is a clear-cut exhibit of what constitutes ‘hate’ under Canada’s hate laws. The al-Quds Day ‘hate fest’ also includes incitement to violence against Jews.

Justin Trudeau Voted Against Saying ISIS Committed Genocide, Now He Accuses Canadians Of That Exact Crime

Back in 2016, Trudeau voted against a Conservative motion declaring ISIS atrocities as genocide. Yet just this week he was more than willing to label the domestic crimes committed against Indigenous women as an act of Canadian genocide.” The European Union and United States both agreed that ISIS was committing genocide. But Trudeau refused. Even some Liberal MPs voted with the Conservative motion, along with NDP MPs and Bloc MPs.

<https://www.spencerfernando.com/2019/06/05/disgusting-hypocrite-justin-trudeau-voted-against-saying-isis-committed-genocide-now-he-accuses-canadians-of-that-exact-crime/>

What does it mean to call Canada's treatment of Indigenous women a 'genocide'?

Prime Minister Justin Trudeau adopted that language as his own, telling an audience in Vancouver that "we accept the findings of the commissioners that it was genocide." The international consequences of attaching such a label to one's own country on the international stage could be heavy and long-lasting. They might be felt the next time that Canada tries to press another country on its human rights record, or tries to uphold its own image as a nation where there is rule of law. The reputational damage alone is a cost that most countries would want to avoid.

then nothing is a genocide”

Cotler Speech Disrupted by Pro-Palestinian Activists

“We do have to act on the Palestinian tragedy, but you can’t say it has gone unaddressed in the court of public opinion. The problem is Israel is the only party held accountable; Hamas and the like have impunity,” most glaringly at the United Nations. “We do not protect the Palestinian people when their leadership is not held accountable for the atrocities perpetrated against them,” Irwin Cotler added.

Why is Trudeau Government Calling Richmond Hill Explosive Arrests a ‘Local Matter’?

In what seems to be a potential incident of a thwarted terrorist plot, there is clearly a 'national security' issue here. As pointed out by Senator Linda Frum – the FBI is investigating the arrests, making it obviously much more than a local issue. Yet, in another example of their obsessive political correctness, the Trudeau government has repeatedly said that it's just a 'local matter.'

C3RF Member Update - 7 June, 2019

The last few "updates" have analysed the ways in which both state and non-state actors have used their respective powers to control just what you can see and hear in the public square. These entities operate to progress an agenda that is post-nationalist, post-industrialist and post-Christian and includes the progressive left and the establishment. Their strength is augmented by a compliant media and academia even as it is buttressed by opportunistic fellow travelers in the form of Islamist and anarchist movements. They talk to each other and they all have one thing in common; they revile the traditional values of the masses and call them out as fascist and racist rather than recognize them as "conventional and even commendable".

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

Triggering the Academic Lynch Mob

Ricardo Duchesne had the audacity to claim that the Indo-European legacy of intellectual restlessness, science, art, philosophy, law and civics on which our civilization is founded is now in imminent peril of disintegration. Though he believes all people have a right to preserve their ethnic identities, Duchesne also notes that only light-skinned citizens of European descent do not enjoy the right to celebrate and affirm their identity, as other groups of whatever color, ethnicity, religion or political persuasion manifestly do. For this breach of "social justice" orthodoxy and leftist ideological dogma, he must be arraigned as a "white supremacist," reduced to pariah status and made to endure a species of social and professional assassination.

Duchesne is only the latest victim of academic mobbing. There have been many and there will be many more as the vendetta against the best and brightest in the academic world gathers momentum.

Sociology Professor Who Quoted 'Red Pill' Sites Forced Out of Canadian University

At this pivotal moment in recent Western history, Richard Duchesne tackles what may be the most crucial question for people of European descent: 'What makes us unique?' Casting aside the dominant cultural Marxist narratives and dismissing the popular media attacks on concepts of 'whiteness', Duchesne draws on a range of historical examples, sources and philosophies to examine the origins of European man, his achievements, and the nature of the Faustian spirit that has driven his innovation and creativity.

Transgenderism vs. Free Speech in BC

The British Columbia Human Rights Tribunal (BCHRT) recently decided a case involving a flyer distributed by a street preacher, William Whatcott, challenging the candidacy for provincial office of a man who identified publicly as a woman. Whatcott's words discriminated against no one in any sense other than the most trivial. So much for Canada's vaunted free expression "guarantee."

Stifling Free Speech Undermines Democracy

In this instance Faisal Khan Suri was offended because a Conservative Member of Parliament, Michael Cooper, had the unmitigated gall to refer to the 74-page manifesto of New Zealand mass shooting suspect Brenton Tarrant, accused of killing 51 people at two mosques in Christchurch, N.Z., who rejected "conservatism." Cooper shared the information to counter Suri's sweeping allegations about Conservative commentators from the manifesto of another mass shooter; "Bissonnette's online history (which) showed he repeatedly sought out "alt-right and conservative commentators."

Lawmaker Accuses Constituents of Hate Speech for Protesting Drag Queen Story Hour

We need to attack head-on not only the sexualization of children's spaces, but an illiberal left that claims even bringing up the issue is hate speech. This is not a situation where we should respect all sides. The trans movement and progressive politicians have invented out of whole cloth the idea that there is some consensus over whether men can become women or whether children should be exposed to drag queens. There is not. Nobody outside of the elites in the media, academia, and politics ever agreed to any of this, and people aren't just going to accept it all out of fear of absurdly being accused of bigotry or hate speech.

CHRISTENDOM

Islam's War on the Christian Cross

What is it about the crucifix that makes some Muslims react violently? Islamic hostility to the cross is an unwavering phenomenon - that symbol which represents the heart of the Christian faith, namely the death and resurrection of Christ, two events Islam vehemently denies. The jihad on the cross began with Muhammad, was carried out by early caliphs, and continues to this day by jihadis of the world, not to mention the occasional "everyday" Muslim.

POLAND

Here's why Poland takes in millions of migrants... just not Muslim ones

Poland's government has long been proud of its strong stance against migration. While other European nations took in hundreds of thousands of people who'd fled war, Poland stood firm with its borders firmly closed. But the country had a problem: a massive labour shortage. So the solution was to oversee the largest influx of migrant workers in the country's recent history. Over the last few years, more than two million foreigners have arrived in Poland. They're mostly Christian from neighbouring Ukraine. So, is the government okay with migrants so long as they're not Muslims from Syria or Afghanistan?

There is nothing extreme or evil in love for one's nation. There is nothing wrong with calling oneself a patriot. There is nothing bad in wanting to stand up for a sense of national identity. Somalis have Changed Minneapolis

Due to continuing refugee placements as well as chain migration there are an estimated 80,000 Somalis living in the Twin Cities metro area, or more like 79,000 if you subtract those who've left the country to join terrorist organizations like ISIS. I'm not sure what it would take for Minneapolitans to wake up and stop being so suicidal with their multiculturalism. It isn't Trump who's a big baby – it's Sadiq Khan

What Sadiq said about Trump in the Observer – that his actions are like those of the 'European dictators of the 1930s and 40s' and that he is the figurehead of a 'global far-right movement' that is 'using the same divisive tropes of the fascists of the 20th century' – is far worse than what Trump said about Sadiq in return. Sadiq likened Trump to the people who destroyed Europe and murdered and gassed to death millions of Jews; Trump called Sadiq a midget. I'm saying Sadiq got off very lightly here. Sadiq Khan's insults against Trump were historically illiterate and dangerously coarse.

Islamism and Immigration: A New Front for Troublemaking

Islamists are presenting themselves as champions of civil liberties. If only. REMEMBERING

June 4: China's Longest Night

During the night of June 3-4, 1989, the People's Liberation Army viciously cleared Beijing's Tiananmen Square, where more than a million people had gathered, talked, sung, and celebrated. During the night thousands died. Blood marked pavements, corpses littered streets and alleys. The papier-mâché Goddess of Democracy, a monument to freedom that dominated the square, was smashed. It was China's longest night.
