WE charity received $5.5 million from Trudeau government since 2015

From 2008-2012, WE received no funding from the federal government. Starting in 2015, WE started receiving substantial funding from the government, primarily from the Departments of Canadian Heritage and Families, Children and Social Development. In 2017, the Trudeau government paid WE $1.5 million for Canada 150 activities, including $1 million to hold a single "WE Day" rally in Ottawa on July 2. The prime Minister and his mother both spoke at the event.

The WE Movement is Dangerous for Adolescents

The WE Movement has greatly changed in the past few years, and has become a social engineering organization, which indoctrinates youth into a mindset that is contrary to wholesome, healthy traditional values. It does this by providing WE Day rallies in major cities, such as Ottawa, Vancouver and Toronto, and in the U.S. and the U.K., whereby celebrities are invited to connect with youth. These are not just any celebrities. They include speakers and musicians, who promote homosexuality, abortion and alarmist environmentalism.

Free the Children 'We Day' leader moonlights as gay stripper

Michael David Lorsch, who frequently speaks at Catholic and public schools around Ontario and has led trips for youth overseas, serves as the Manager of Leadership Programs for Free the Children, which was founded by the Kielburger brothers. The organization has come under criticism in recent years by Catholic parents concerned about the Catholic brothers' views on abortions, the charity's involvement in promoting contraceptives, and its collaboration with Catholic schools on the popular "We Day" fundraiser.

'My mistake': Calls for Bill Morneau's resignation over $41,000 worth of WE Charity travel expenses

Finance Minister Morneau's revelation is yet another potential ethics violation in the scandal over a contract for the student volunteer program. Ministers are prohibited from accepting sponsored travel, a lesson Prime Minister Justin Trudeau learned when he breached conflict of interest rules for his family's vacation to the Aga Khan's private island. The Conservatives and the Bloc Québécois called for him to resign.

Barbara Kay retires from the National Post

Barbara Kay was a fearless, sane voice in a mad, mad world and is to be lauded. Thank you for your tireless efforts to stand for the truth. And you are leaving at the right time. If you cannot speak the truth, what's the point? To become like the majority of pitiful reporters who bend to the "rules". The Epoch Times and so many others will allow you to be the person you are - forthright, honest and fearless. We thank you for your years of thoughtful articles and well researched pieces. Canada: Sharia financing rapidly expanding with increasing Sharia-adherent population

Although currently not quite in the very centre of attention of the global Islamic finance industry, the Canadian Islamic finance scene in the recent past has experienced growing interest from domestic and international investors, as it developed a rising number of Shariah-compliant investment and financing offerings. The reason is that more Muslims are seeking halal banking and finance products and – in general – an open-minded and progressive society is looking for alternative and socially conscious ways of investing.

The Federal Court has ruled that the Safe Third Country Agreement (STCA), which allows Canada to send certain refugee claimants back to the United States, is unconstitutional. Released Wednesday, the decision from Justice Ann McDonald explicitly states that the U.S. is no longer a safe country for refugees sent back from Canada due to the risk of imprisonment.

Trudeau sidesteps calls to launch review after claims Governor General has created 'toxic workplace' at Rideau Hall

An allegedly toxic workplace at Rideau Hall created by Governor General Julie Payette, the Queen's representative in Canada, and her top staff, has prompted calls for an independent review by NDP leader Jagmeet Singh and a federal public service union into the environment at the vice-regal office. While the Privy Council Office says it is "very concerned" about the allegations and will follow up with Rideau Hall, Prime Minister Justin Trudeau has been non-committal about ordering a review.

Origins of the Protester Mindset 2020

Replacing the morality and ethics emphasizing personal freedom and responsibility and family values were new programs designated as Moral Values Education. Educators argued that unless moral values are freely chosen by students, they are invalid. Now moral values are up to the student–not those of the family or community–"no right and no wrong". The protesters at Innisfail indeed had their own moral values, and clearly, they were not those of that community.

The Bank of Canada is Complicit in Erasing Canadian History

Perhaps individuals such as Viola Desmond are worthy of recognition, however she is simply nowhere near MacDonald or Laurier in her importance of her contribution to Canadian history. For that reason, it is important that these two Canadian Prime Ministers retain their positions on the high circulation $10 and $5 bills. In addition, Robert Borden and William Lyon Mackenzie King should not be tampered with either.

C3RF Update – 24 July 2020

This week's update hopefully marks the inflection point that sees the reversal of Canada's headlong rush into despotism. This is the case as a multitude of other organizations are seen to come out swinging alongside C3RF to demand that individual rights be given the priority and consideration mandated by the nation's own constitution. Prime among these initiatives, and foremost when it comes to informing the C3RF reader, is the Justice Centre for Constitutional Freedoms' (JCCF) analysis of Ontario's draconian lockdown in the face of the Wuhan virus.

BC NDP/Liberals Openly Discriminate Against Christians

Meet BC NDP MLA Spencer Chandra Herbert (holding baby), who is calling for the removal of a BC Liberal, Mr. Laurie Throness, from caucus

Mr. Chandra Herbert chastised 10 Liberal MLAs for running ads in the Light Magazine, a Christian publication that upholds tradition biblical values on family and marriage and socially conservative views. Several MLA's apologized and the leader of the BC Liberals, Andrew Wilkinson, not only apologized but said they would be backing away from advertising with the magazine, saying "there is no room for homophobia, transphobia, or any discrimination in the BC Liberal Party."

Black Lives Matter

'Black Lives Matter' and the Camouflage for American Marxism

Marxism used the slogan "Workers of the world, unite!", modern Marxists in America had to abandon this slogan. By definition, the workers are those who work. However, at the center of the ersatz-revolution of 2020 are those who do not work. American neo-Marxists deserted this unproductive, as it seems to them, idea. They've chosen bandits, looters, vandals, lumpens, and nincompoops blinded by leftist ideals as the cannon fodder for the revolution.

Blacks are losing control over Black Lives Matter

One of the peculiar things about the Black Lives Matter movement is what a small role blacks play in it. Most recently, San Francisco's hard-left mayor London Breed, when she sat down for an interview with Vogue magazine, scolded whites for horning in on a black movement. I've commented repeatedly in past posts about the way in which white leftists have co-opted the Black Lives Matter movement.

Revealing the Moral Bankruptcy of BLM

How many thousands attended the BLM protests for seven-year—old Natalie Wallace, who was fatally shot in the head on July 4th? The answer is that BLM members have probably no idea of who this little girl was—nor does it matter to them. She was not killed by a white policeman. She was another innocent victim of a senseless shooting in Chicago over the July 4th weekend. The reports were that Natalie was simply standing on the sidewalk outside her grandmother's home when the murder suspects got out of a car and just started shooting. Where's the moral outrage over this senseless murder? Yet, defunding the police is the answer from the BLM terrorist gangs.

Stop pretending the BLM protests were peaceful

Black Americans whom I've spoken to on the street across America in randomly-selected encounters were almost unanimous in their approval of the National Guard deployments to their neighborhood during the riots. If anything, their main criticism was that these deployments came too late to prevent the destruction.

Identity Politics, Oppression and Aversion to the White Man

The one question the revolutionaries never want to address publicly is their end vision for Western society, because they don't have one that they wish to reveal. That is the secret they guard and hide as they manipulate people and foment rage and violence among their own followers. Their end goal is not desirable, credible, or useful, but comes down to ultimately advancing their own lust for personal power.

It is Never About the "Issue"

When communist organizations like Black Lives Matter and Antifa say they are protesting something, you know they are actually taking actions to further the coordinated efforts by communists in the United States to overthrow the Republic and replace it with a totalitarian communist regime. Power to Illusions – Let me confuse you with the facts by Valerie Sobel

The pageantry of BLM virtue-signalling by useful idiots (aka liberals) is over. It's run its course. And not because of BLM's official, loud and proud Jew-hatred, calls for killing of police officers and horrifying violence on American streets, actual murder of police officers (dozens dead and over 350 injured), looting of businesses, intimidation of society at large and continuous killing of their own people. It's over because the game of pulling the wool over everyone's eyes is over.

EXPOSED: BLM Unites with Islamists & Communists to Dismantle the West with Glenn Beck

The violent leftists from the 1960s never went away; they just retreated underground. They've come back to lead the radicals of today, but they've added a new ally — Islamists. It's a nine-year-old Glenn Beck prediction fulfilled and playing out violently on our streets. Freedom of Speech

Free speech is absolute or it is nothing

The defence of free speech is an absolute or it is nothing. The protection a society affords to unpopular and despised ideas cannot be applied according to the degree of distastefulness of those ideas. Any other approach perforce chills expression, engenders intolerance and thereby assures a dangerous, or at best stultifying, reprehensible, even dangerous.

Aia Fog on Denmark after the Muhammad Cartoons

Freedom of speech is not legally protected in Denmark in the way that the U.S. constitution's First Amendment provides protections. The Danish constitution only has a ban on censorship, and there are ongoing public and private debates and arguments about free speech. If rights are to be preserved, they must be protected and defended. "If we do not stand firm on freedom of speech, despite the often-violent threats from Islam, we will ... lose that right. ... [I]f we lose freedom of speech, democracy will fall, and ultimately, our culture."

Facebook

Threat to American Family Association

On May 22, 2019, a young man named Chase Davis threatened to kill everyone at AFA. He did this by posting a pair of messages on AFA's Facebook page. This is what Davis wrote:

> "i am coming to tupelo unexpected with a group of people and we are going to kill every single person who runs your group"
> "you are the most disgusting people in america. i have put together a group to have you pieces of [expletive] obliterated into dust. yes, i literally mean killing all of you. you people are nothing but disgusting, warn out, and old excuses of human life."

AFA reported the threats to Facebook but was told that the threat was not a policy violation. Can you believe it? How is it possible that threatening to murder every employee at our ministry does not violate Facebook policy? AFA appealed the decision to no avail.

The United Nations

At UN, Saudi Arabia calls for "final solutions" to stamp out "Islamophobia," including prison and fines

For years now, the Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) and other Islamic groups have condemned any and all honest discussion of how jihadis use the texts and teachings of Islam to justify violence and oppression as "Islamophobic." If the UN heeds Saudi Arabia's words, which it will do sooner or later, all criticism of Islam will be criminalized — which is exactly the situation of criticism of Islam in Islamic law.

The United Nations' Institutional Racism

If the UN would systematically single out a minority of only one member state to be condemned for alleged human rights abuses for example, while completely ignoring the documented human rights abuses of an entire host of member states, this double-standard would amount to systematic discrimination, or "racism", against that state according to the definition of "institutional racism" mentioned above.

A Few Thoughts on Law and Justice

Being principled today is very difficult to do. Throughout my life, people praised me for being principled. I did not deserve the praise because earlier in my life, it took no courage to stand up for Israel, to stand up for democracy, to stand up against suppression of free speech, to stand up against excesses of race-specific affirmative action programs. It did not take any courage to do that. Unfortunately, today, it not only takes courage, I think you have to be somewhat foolhardy.

Marxism in the Classroom, Riots in the Streets by Clare Lopez

The explosion of lawless rioting on American streets was only a matter of time. Sixty-two years ago, former FBI agent W. Cleon Skousen wrote "The Naked Communist" to warn Americans about how communists planned to destroy our system from within, not by means of sudden revolution as envisioned by Karl Marx, but through a version of Italian communist Antonio Gramsci's "cultural Marxism." With a nod to the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) and its People's Liberation Army (PLA), it has been a "long march through the institutions" that has brought us to the brink of catastrophe—and much of it began in our schools.

Today's Revolutionaries Aren't Like Their '60s Predecessors By Victor Davis Hanson

In the '60s, a huge "silent majority" finally had enough, elected Richard Nixon and slowed down the revolution by jailing its criminals, absorbing and moderating it. Today, if there is a silent mass of traditionalists and conservatives, they remain in hiding. If they stay quiet in their veritable mental monasteries and deplore the violence in silence, the revolution will steamroll on. But as in the past, if they finally snap, decide enough is enough and reclaim their country, then even this cultural revolution will sputter out, too.

The coming water wars

A new dam will give Ethiopia control of the Nile, and imperil Egypt's security. Will the two come to blows? Water is a matter of national security for all of the countries which rely on the Nile river system. Burundi, Congo, Egypt, Ethiopia, Eritrea, Kenya, Rwanda, South Sudan, Sudan, Tanzania and Uganda all monitor the flow of the river through their borders, but none are as at risk as Egypt, and none are less at risk than Ethiopia; 80% of Nile water originates in the Ethiopian mountains.
