CANADA

It's Time to Let Canada Heal

The incessant hateful rhetoric used to paint these peaceful, law-abiding Canadian citizens who oppose the public health autocracy, as second-class citizens and sub-humans, has run its course. It's time to bring Canada back to the place that made it the great country it once was: A reasonable, moderate, and enlightened society where Canadians were free to live their lives in peace and unhindered.

It's time to let Canada and Canadians heal. It's time to let the population reunite after it's been torn apart by divisive and hateful rhetoric and fear propaganda. It's time for people to stop treating their neighbors as diseased untouchables, but rather as human beings who have the sacrosanct right to their human dignity and privacy.

Comment from Madeline Weld/Canadiancitizens.org

Mary Dawood Catlin's article is encouraging because it describes how the fight against Trudeau's tyranny did not end with the turbo-charged suppression of the truckers' Freedom Convoy via the illegally invoked Emergencies Act. As peacefully as the truckers challenged vaccine mandates, but with less honking, unvaccinated Canadians of all stripes are challenging Trudeau's depiction of them as a racist, misogynist, anti-science fringe element. Under the hashtag "Trudeau," hundreds of thousands of them are posting mini-bios proving that they do more than "take up space." Just like those who have been attending freedom demonstrations since February 18, these autobiographers are taking up the torch lit by the truckers. Could it be this pressure that caused the government to announce its intention to stop forcing arriving travellers to install the tracking app ArriveCan on their cell phones as of September 30? This development is certainly reminiscent of how mask mandates evaporated when the truckers showed up in Ottawa. Regardless of the reasons behind the government's decision, Catlin is right that the unscientific and unreasonable Covid mandates, or more accurately diktats, that have for far too long suppressed and divided Canadians, must go. It is only when the government moves on from "the devastation of its own edicts" that Canada will heal.

A measure of dissent by Conrad Black

No country has been more profoundly afflicted by this planetary blunder than Canada, and no large country is less offensive to the environment or better placed to lead serious objective research to assure that humanity responds constructively to climate issues. It is needless to add that the current federal government has not only missed the policy bus; it has embarked on a dysfunctional policy leading away from where we should be aspiring to go: achieving adequate knowledge to enact the best policy.

'Excess Deaths' from Canada's COVID Response: Justice Centre Challenges Narrative of 'Success'

"To claim that Canada's response to the pandemic has been successful is to ignore the immense social and medical harms experienced by Canadians," John Carpay, President of JCCF, said in a statement on Sept.

15. "Canadian governments have a legal obligation to demonstrate that any restrictions on fundamental rights and freedoms are justifiable and the least restrictive means to solve a problem."

World Economic Forum official accuses Canadian politicians of spreading 'disinformation' about the group

In a 2017 panel discussion captured on video, Schwab said he is "very proud of the young generation" of leaders WEF is training, including Trudeau. "So, we penetrate the cabinets," Schwab said. The previous day, the WEF leader continued, he was at a reception with Trudeau. "I know that half of his cabinet," Schwab said, "and even more than half of his cabinet, are our, actually, young global leaders of the World Economic Forum." Members of the first class in 1992 included future German Chancellor Angela Merkel, future French President Nicolas Sarkozy and future British Prime Minister Tony Blair.

Why Are Young People Converting to Conservatism? Jordan Peterson with Eric Duhaime

Canada is facing a conflict of wills. Trudeau stands on his high pillar of morality, self-justifying actions that impact everyone from farmers to the current youth generation. Jordan Peterson Releases 'Conservative Manifesto' for Those Holding 'Traditional Values'

Peterson's manifesto is comprised of a set of values that he calls "foundational principles." He said the prevailing ideologies and trends that influence the current political climate, such as identity politics, “threatens the trust upon which peace and prosperity necessarily depends” and undermines “the spirit of our sons and daughters.”

Trudeau spotted singing ‘Bohemian Rhapsody’ while in London for Queen’s funeral

“Given the magnitude of the Queens funeral, given he’s supposed[d] to be representing [Canada], I’m no prude but pls, some decorum & respect at least for a day. It’s always got to be about him #TrudeauMustGo,” tweeted @Victoria59L in response to the video. This isn’t the first time Trudeau has made embarrassed Canada while abroad.

Eight times international media has lashed out at Trudeau

Prime Minister Justin Trudeau has a habit of embarrassing gaffes and statements while on diplomatic trips abroad. The latest instance included a video of Trudeau singing at a hotel piano in the UK on Saturday prior to the state funeral of Queen Elizabeth II. True North has compiled a list of eight times Trudeau has embarrassed Canada abroad and received bad international press for it in the recent past.

RCMP led the way on horseback at Queen Elizabeth's funeral

Four Royal Canadian Mounted Police led the way during Queen Elizabeth II’s funeral procession on Monday from Westminster Abbey to Marble Arch. The service says the officers are part of the RCMP musical ride, a troop of riders and their horses. “Obviously it’s incredibly humbling and honouring for us, as members of the force, to be here representing the organization, representing every Canadian that we know would love to be here for this historic moment,” Williamson said Friday.

#TrudeauMustGo trend continues to grow on Twitter

Canadians from all walks of life are using the hashtag #TrudeauMustGo on Twitter to voice their displeasure with Prime Minister Justin Trudeau. Twitter users ranging from politicians to former Olympians are crafting tweets describing who they are, what they do for a living, writing phrases similar to "Justin Trudeau thinks I'm a problem and that I hold unacceptable views" and concluding with the hashtag #TrudeauMustGo or #TrudeauHasToGo. Trudeau's former top advisor Gerald Butts attempted to discredit the trend by claiming unnamed forces were financing the campaign and that bots were behind the trend. There has been no indication that the campaign is funded and many of the tweets are from verified accounts.

C3RF Update, 25 Sept 2022 – Hidden Diaries

My goodness, talk about microaggressions sparking panicked frenzy in Canada's establishment media. It looks like Pierre Poilievre's ascension to the top office of the Conservative Party of Canada has done just that. How else to explain a seasoned and professional journalist losing control over his inner voice to loudly and irreverently keep the new leader from beginning a press conference? This was the case as David Akin sought to draw out Poilievre's opening remarks with demands that his questions be answered immediately – to heck with what a prospective Prime Minister might have to say. It would appear that the first shot has been fired across the bow of a newly led Conservative Party by a not-so-impartial legacy media. And it looks like this media is hellbent on framing and defining the new leader while replacing his agenda with their own.

National Grooming Network

The SOGI 123 (Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity) resource was launched in BC and Alberta public schools in 2016. SOGI 123 is a resource that has been integrated into all areas of the school curriculum under the guise of an anti-bullying program but is in reality focused on sexualizing and indoctrinating students by teaching and promoting unscientific 2SLGBTQ+ gender ideology and exposing them to harmful and sexually explicit material.

FREEDOM CONVOY

Witch Hunt Against Cop Who Donated to Freedom Convoy Motivated by Vengeance

The witch hunt being carried out against Const. Kristina Neilson of the Ottawa Police Service (OPS) who allegedly donated to the Freedom Convoy is only entrenching division and mistrust among Canadians. The government can't turn back the clock, but it's not too late to learn from its mistakes and start treating upset citizens with respect. It can begin by ending the vindictive pursuit of Freedom Convoy supporters.

The Real Reason Why Trudeau Sang The Bohemian Rhapsody' Just Before Queen Elizabeth II's Funeral

"Protesters chanting "Trudeau must go" flooded the streets of Toronto on September 17 as part of the so-called World-Wide Rally for Freedom, calling for an end to the use of the government's ArriveCan Digital ID travel app as well as the application of its vestigial mandates.

Authoritarian and defiant as he blunders on, Trudeau, not even with the power of the PMO, cannot sing away the massive popularity of the Freedom Convoy, who have proven they are here to stay. Meanwhile, for millions of people worldwide watching the score, it's Freedom Convoy 1000, Justin Trudeau, zero.

RCMP Sharing of Private Info with Banks to Freeze Freedom Convoy Accounts Was 'Haphazard': Tory MP

In the RCMP's response on June 14, it said the information was disclosed to up to 50 financial institutions by "unencrypted e-mail" and classified as "Protected A." The Canadian government refers to "Protected A" as "information or assets that, if compromised, could cause injury to an individual, organization or government." The federal police force said the information provided to financial entities "included but was not limited to" name, date of birth, addresses, associated vehicles, businesses, and phone numbers.

COVID-19 UPDATES

A Day in the Life of a Masked Child

Of all the many various pandemic abominations – and there is no shortage to choose from – the victimization of children stands above the rest as a uniquely horrific defilement of fundamental human virtue and conscience. It is a particularly heart- wrenching evil that has rather shockingly become endemic in society today. It is incredibly difficult for people to accept that a 'civilized' society could possibly fall for and engage in scientifically irrational or morally depraved behavior as a society.

THE GREAT RESET

King Charles helped organize original Great Reset meeting with World Economic Forum during COVID-19

Queen Elizabeth II's son Charles, who ascended the British throne in the wake of her death on Thursday, co-hosted the original meeting for the Great Reset, a totalitarian initiative of the World Economic Forum, with WEF Chairman Klaus Schwab.

In a video released to mark the launch of the Great Reset, then-Prince Charles warned that the Great Reset plan, which includes "green" policies that would suffocate businesses and individual freedoms worldwide, is a matter of urgency.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

Tomi Lahren evacuated as 'protesters' pound doors at University of New Mexico speech

What is hateful to some is compelling to others. What is bigoted to some is a fresh perspective to others. What is revolting to some is riveting to others. What is pornographic to some is imaginative to others. What is crass to some is hard-hitting to others. What is crude to some is hilarious to others. If we begin to restrict expression based on individual preferences, there will soon be a blank blackboard. In time the blackboard will be branded racist and soon it will be removed.

BLACK LIVES MATTER

Egg on the Face for Black Lives Matter Supporters

Black Lives Matter, as led by Black Lives Matter Global Network Foundation (BLMGNF), is now collapsing visibly, as its supporters and indeed some of its leaders' distance themselves from it like rats from a sinking ship. Even as long ago as 2016, the movement was condoning and even encouraging Black people to threaten people on the street, commit arson, and drag people from cars — actions that can result in the justifiable deployment of the deadly force about which BLM complains. The violence escalated in 2020 with widespread rioting, looting, arson, and physical assaults, and Kyle Rittenhouse's Caucasian assailants were among those who were shot justifiably by the people they threatened.

Lithium Prices Surge to Record High, Threatening to Push Up Expensive EV Costs Even Higher

The price of lithium carbonate, the key material used to make electric car batteries, has continued to skyrocket, tripling in the past year. The valuable mineral is mainly processed in communist China, which has a monopoly on the battery market. This has caused a rise in the cost of lithium batteries, which has been increasing due to strong demand and lockdown disruptions at China's main production hubs

Potty training: The transgender movement wants to change your bathroom habits

If this were just a window into the madness and tragedy of "transgenderism," the two theories espoused would be weird enough. But what makes them noteworthy is the insistence that society must change to accommodate body dysmorphia and the mental and physical ills that accompany it. Men must abandon the convenient urinal and women must smell their poop.

No! This is not how society is supposed to work. Those of us living in the real world must take a stand (if we're men) or keep our noses out of the potty (if we're women) and reject this toddler-like obsession with toilet training.

THE UNITED STATES

Cleaning the Washington Stables by David Solway

The slogan "drain the swamp," restored to our political discourse by Donald Trump, serves as the contemporary description and political purpose of the Herculean Labor undertaken by the former president, the nemesis of the fetid Washington quagmire. Something in the magnitude of Noah's Flood would be needed to rinse and fumigate the grime and crud and sewage that has accumulated over the generations of grift and venality in the realms of authority, possibly never more feculent than at present under the reprobate administration of Joe Biden, a lawless DOJ, an unscrupulous FBI, a weaponized IRS, a tainted NIH, NIAID, and CDC, all operating in the debauched atmosphere of corporate socialism and generally associated with banana republics.

DC firm with ties to the Clintons operating a 'grassroots' scheme in the shadows

The Atlantic has called Arabella 'the massive progressive dark-money group you've never heard of' and 'the indisputable heavyweight of Democratic dark money.' 'The system of political financing, which often obscures the identities of donors, is known as dark money,' wrote The New York Times, 'and Arabella's network is a leading vehicle for it on the left.' Arabella is the nefarious offspring of a man named Eric Kessler, who was a former staffer in the Clinton administration. It acts as central command for a vast web of far-left (or flagrantly Marxist) non-profit organizations. Subsequently, which in turn:

DeSantis' shenanigans elicit more of a reaction than instances of actual human trafficking

The left continues to sink to new chasms of derangement and callousness. Legitimately comparing the plight of real trafficked victims to a political stunt involving a few dozen Venezuelan men meandering around a ritzy vacation spot after a private flight is appalling, but completely expected when dealing with degenerates like the Democrats.

The DOJ and FBI are beyond fixing

We should thank Barack Obama and Joe Biden for clearly illustrating to the American people the dangers inherent in an enforcement arm of the federal government. We are now living in a police state that will, through intimidation and force, move the country toward one-party rule and totalitarianism. President Trump recently said that, if he were to serve a second term, he would fire 50,000 swamp creatures across several government agencies. God bless him, but that number is woefully inadequate. It literally needs to be upwards of a million pink slips if we are ever to restore our constitutional government

Sanctimonious Cities

In Martha's Vineyard, there is a sign that reads, "We stand with immigrants, with refugees, with indigenous peoples... All are welcome here." But within 48 hours of receiving a plane full of 50 illegal immigrants sent by Ron DeSantis from Florida, the political leaders in Martha's Vineyard shipped the illegal immigrants, the very people they proclaim are welcome there, to a military base.

Bombshells undercut the 'Big Lie:' 21 confirmed illegalities, irregularities from 2020 election

There are now nearly two dozen credible confirmations of wrongdoing, irregularities and illegalities that undercut the claims of bureaucrats, journalists and Democrats that the November 2020 general election was flawless. Democrats and their allies in the traditional news media have coined the term the "Big Lie" to dismiss anyone who questions the conduct of the 2020 election. But with each passing day, new irregularities, security vulnerabilities and illegalities are being unmasked by bombshell revelations from courts, legislators and other investigative bodies like the FBI and Homeland Security Department.

The defender of faith

So, is this going to be good for the Jews? And "Why didn't the Queen ever find time in her engagements abroad to visit Israel"? Behind both questions lies a fundamental misunderstanding. Members of the Royal Family undertake no engagements overseas unless the UK Foreign Office wants them to do so. The Queen failed to visit Israel not because she didn't want to go. It was because the British government didn't want her to go.

Leicester and the unravelling of multiculturalism

Can we finally talk about multiculturalism? The violent clashes in Leicester between young Hindu and Pakistani men are the grim consequence of the ideology of multiculturalism. It was sold as a means of promoting harmony and equality. Instead, it has done the opposite. It has encouraged members of minority groups to shun mainstream British society. It has encouraged Muslims to identify with Pakistan and Hindus to identify with India, over and above the nation of which they are citizens. This has inevitably stirred up tensions and violence. It has created divisions where there ought to be none. It is time we challenged this failed ideology head-on.

"Bernard, I have served eleven governments in the past thirty years. If I had believed in all their policies, I would have been passionately committed to keeping out of the Common Market, and passionately committed to going into it.
