Alberta Doctor Calls on Medical Association to Investigate ‘Sudden Deaths’ of 80 Young Doctors

Dr. William Makis, an Alberta doctor, is calling on the Canadian Medical Association (CMA) to look into the significant jump in doctors’ “sudden since December 2020. “These previously healthy doctors died suddenly while engaging in regular physical activity, died unexpectedly in their sleep, suffered heart attacks, strokes, unusual accidents, or developed sudden onset aggressive cancers,” said the Sept. 3 letter, referring to 32 cases of young doctors who passed away, which Makis tallied at the time.

Yet Another Pathetically Weak Sentence for a Vicious Crime Makes a Mockery Of 'Justice'

We have a system that views it as 'cruel' to keep dangerous people locked up, yet somehow doesn't see the cruelty that kind of weakness imposes on innocent Canadians who end up paying the price. Myles Sanderson had over 50 prior criminal convictions, yet was granted parole as the parole board said he wasn't a risk to the public. In September of 2022, he went on to stab 11 people to death in Saskatchewan.

Poillievre decries assisted suicide for minors and the mentally ill

"It is important that legislation addressing medically assisted dying is clear and includes necessary safeguards. I do not support expanding physician assisted suicide to minors or people who are unable to truly consent," writes Poillievre. "Nor do I accept assisted suicide as a solution for mental illness. My government will always promote and prioritize the health of Canadians across the country. We need to promote policies that prioritize compassionate palliative care, rather than making medically assisted dying the only option."

Barry Sherman Conviction Could Have Removed Justin Trudeau from Office

"On December 13, 2017, the day Justin Trudeau's 2015 election campaign fundraisers Barry and Honey Sherman were murdered, Trudeau had both the Lobbying Commissioner and the Conflict of Interest and Ethics Commissioner removed, and appointed new ones." "At the time of the targeted murders, the RCMP were conducting a criminal investigation of Barry and Honey Sherman's August 26, 2015 fundraiser for 2015 election candidate Justin Trudeau."

Conservatives Call for Bill Blair & Brenda Lucki to Resign

In the wake of audio being released that gives the impression RCMP Commissioner Brenda Lucki was seeking to leverage a tragedy to advance the political agenda of the Liberals (which can be read about here), the Conservatives are calling for Lucki's resignation, along with the resignation of public safety minister Bill Blair. "We do not have confidence in this minister to hold any position in this government and he should resign immediately, along with the RCMP commissioner," said Conservative public safety critic Raquel Dancho.

Mengele and the Culture of Death is alive and well in the 21st century.

In March 2023, Canada will become one of the few nations in the world allowing medical aid in dying, or MAID, for people whose sole underlying condition is depression, bipolar disorder, personality disorders, schizophrenia, PTSD or any other mental affliction. Interesting isn't it that the idea that mental illness might make someone eligible for state-sanctioned assisted death had long been forbidden ground in Canada's euthanasia debate. Oh, the times they are a changing.

C3RF Update, 21 Oct 2022 – Chicken Homecoming

This week's update sees the chickens clucking loudly as they make their way back to the roost. In this case the chickens are the imploding government narratives that framed Freedom Conroy 2022 protesters as extreme and the roost is testimony on day one of the Public Order Emergency Commission. One wonders, will clucking get you through the day when you invoke an Emergencies Act that no one asked for and was not required?

As an added bonus, here's an "In Hot" interview with PPC leader Max Bernier. Is he really a "far-right" opposer and critic of government policies or just a guy who walks the walk?

ACTION 4 CANADA
Protecting Faith, Family and Freedom

In Pursuit of Justice

The radical LGBTQ sex activists are after our children. They are trying to disguise their devious agenda as one built on diversity and inclusion to protect the "most vulnerable", who are manufactured victims of their own indoctrination. The reality is that this is a highly sophisticated International Child Grooming Network and their inclusivity is limited only to those who align with their radical and unscientific ideology.

A list of the big players includes the United Nations, UNICEF, UNESCO, UNFPA, IPPF (International Planned Parenthood Federation), the CDC and the World Health Organization. They are ALL working together to push the Comprehensive Sexuality Education (CSE aka SOGI) in Canada and around the world.

FREEDOM CONVOY UPDATE

"When they stop flowing on the roads of the world, the human societal network stops flowing in turn; the truckers are the red blood cells in the circulatory system of human society as we know it."

~ Dr. Jessica Rose ~

Listen to this inspiring song:
Truckers Freedom Convoy 2022 Canada
"Last of the Cowboys"

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ysd7T7UB6bM>

For thirty-three days, the world watched. Crossing ten provinces and three territories; thousands of trucks traversed the highways and by-ways of Canada's northern climes in this extraordinary moment in Canadian history.

Possibly the most peaceful mass protest in human history, instigated by truckers from across Canada who converged in the country's capital on January 29, 2022, it was crushed two weeks and six days later, on Friday, February 18. This was four days after Trudeau invoked the never before used Emergencies Act of 1988.

The truckers' expedition to Ottawa was about much more than vaccine dictates – it was about lifting the yoke of government impositions from the necks of the Canadian people – the unending cycles of lockdowns and restrictions that were destroying livelihoods and killing freedom in the name of fighting Covid. The Canadian people were fully on board with the truckers' objectives, braving freezing weather to cheer them on along roadways and from overpasses.

It was not just about being able to cross back and forth across the US/Canada border without the Vaxxport. It was about bringing back our freedoms – guaranteed to us under The Charter of Rights and Freedoms which include freedom of conscience, freedom of religion, freedom of thought, freedom of belief, freedom of expression, freedom of the press, freedom of peaceful assembly and freedom of association. These are our inalienable rights.

The truckers reminded us that Freedom of speech, thought, belief and the right to life, liberty and security of the person are guaranteed. We do not need to beg, barter or ask for them...they are ours for the taking.

I had never been prouder of my Canadian roots than during the Freedom Convoy.

The Truckers Were Right

After watching the convoy inquiry clown show and the inflammatory rhetoric and government propaganda by the media about the truckers and convoy supporters, I needed to channel my frustration into something creative. So, I spent 13 hours yesterday making a short 30 documentary out of some of the footage I saved.

The Emergencies Act clown show continues

After 5 days of hearing Ottawa residents and city officials testify that the Freedom Convoy caused residents to hear "phantom honking" aka imaginary sounds, that protesters created a 'Purge'-like atmosphere without any evidence of violence and that protesters committed multiple acts of "microaggressions", it's safe to say that the Emergencies Act inquiry has been a complete clown show.

<https://tnc.news/2022/10/20/ratiod-emergenciesclown-show/>

Recap of Day 1 of the Emergency Act hearings

Commissioner Paul Rouleau began the day with his own introductory remarks outlining how public commissions work and to describe to the viewing public what they can expect to see over the next month and a half. Rouleau described the Commission's process as an exercise in "fact-finding". "Uncovering the truth is an important goal. When difficult events occur that affect the lives of Canadians, the public has a right to know what has happened," Rouleau said.

<https://tnc.news/2022/10/13/day-1-emergency-commission/>

Recap of Day 2 of the Emergencies Act hearings

On Day 2 of the Public Order Emergency Commission hearings, Ottawa residents testified about "phantom honking" and living in a scene from "The Purge" as city councillors accused truckers of committing "microaggressions" toward Ottawa residents.

<https://tnc.news/2022/10/14/recap-day-2/>

Recap of Day 3 of the Emergencies Act hearings

On Day 3 of the Emergencies Act hearings, City of Ottawa officials testified that federal Parliamentary Protective Service officers blocked efforts from "good faith" convoy leaders in moving trucks out of residential neighbourhoods and onto Wellington Street.

<https://tnc.news/2022/10/17/day-3-emergencies-hearings/>

Recap of day 4 of the Emergencies Act hearings

Ottawa mayor Jim Watson told the Public Order Emergency Commission that neither he nor the City of Ottawa requested the invocation of the Emergencies Act. He was neither consulted on nor advised of the federal government's intention of using the unprecedented measure, he said.

<https://tnc.news/2022/10/18/recap-day-4/>

Recap of Day 5 of the Emergencies Act hearings

On Day 5 of the Emergencies Act hearings, explosive cross examination of Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) intelligence officer Pat Morris confirmed that there was no intelligence that indicated the Freedom Convoy met the legal threshold required for the federal government to invoke the Emergencies Act. When cross examined by Convoy lawyer Brendan Miller, officer Morris said that he had no evidence of espionage or support of espionage, no evidence of sabotage or support of sabotage and that there was no evidence of foreign influence activities that involved the threat to any person.

<https://tnc.news/2022/10/19/day-5-recap-hearings/>

Recap of Day 6 of the Emergencies Act hearings

Tow trucks were already on their way to assist in the clearing of downtown Ottawa prior to the invocation of the Emergencies Act, Acting Deputy Chief of Ottawa Police Service Patricia Ferguson revealed at Thursday's Emergencies Act inquiry hearings. Ferguson said of the Act invocation that it "greased the wheels" for the police to move the protesters out and that it gave law enforcement more "confidence" to do their jobs but that Ottawa police had tow truck drivers already on their way.

The Inside Story of the Canadian Trucker Protests— Andrew Peloso and Jeremy Regoto

"You could tell they were fighting for something bigger than just becoming a viral hit overnight or trying to take power. They were fighting for their families. They didn't have a job to go back to, so this was their last shot. ... They really meant it when they parked on those streets of Ottawa." I sit down with the directors of the new docuseries "Trucking for Freedom". They take us inside what they witnessed and captured at the frontlines of the Freedom Convoy trucker protests in Canada.

Mr. Trudeau, the truckers deserved a meeting by Rex Murphy

Is it even possible to think that if the government had met with some of the protesters, on agreed terms, that this whole business could have been settled? I am not saying that it would have been. But they were Canadian citizens after all, just wanting a hearing. Could we agree that it is inexplicable that no representative of the Canadian government offered to sit down and listen to why so many had travelled so far to make, what they thought, a reasonable objection to some aspects of government policy?

There are genuine crises in this world. There are countries that are threatened by havoc and overthrow. There is violence and civic disorder. There is real mayhem. The Ottawa protest bears no relation whatsoever to these circumstances. And therefore, the imposition of the Emergencies Act was — to be kind — a vast overreach and totally unjustifiable.

The Cruel Suppression of Tamara Lich's Freedom of Speech

Lich is muzzled. Her ability to express her thoughts, beliefs, and opinions is quashed. She must continue living this way until her trial is over in a year's time. How is that reasonable? It isn't. Consider also that the prohibition on her social media use is absolute. It is not solely connected to the Freedom Convoy or organizing new protests. It is much broader. She cannot comment on her grandchildren's Facebook posts, send a tweet announcing a family event, comment on friends' milestones in life. Nothing. Radio silence is demanded.

The Andrew Lawton Show | Foreign actors weren't behind Convoy, commission evidence confirms Evidence filed before the Public Order Emergency Commission confirms what most Canadians knew, even if CBC and the Trudeau government didn't — that the Freedom Convoy was an organic and grassroots movement, not an operation launched by foreign actors or fuelled by foreign funding. This CSIS finding is one of many revelations published in a trove of commission documents yesterday.

Convoy Organizers Dispute Ottawa City Manager's Claim Protesters Didn't Uphold Deal to Move Trucks

"That statement is not true and after the [Emergencies Act] was enacted it didn't matter. However, we were always prepared to fulfill this agreement but the police routinely blocked us from actually moving,” Marazzo told The Epoch Times. Wilson also told The Epoch Times the deal “never fell part” and that police were preventing the movement of trucks, which he attributed to a “major communication breakdown” between the different police forces assigned to the protest.

“The truckers were always ready, willing, and able to honour the deal and move the trucks but the police kept shutting down the moves,” says Wilson.

Ignore the Distractions, Emergencies Act Inquiry Is Only About Whether Use of the Act Was Called For

There’s such a din in Ottawa you’d think the truckers were back. And in a sense they are, because hearings are finally under way into the federal government’s invocation of the Emergencies Act, and the ratio of noise to sense threatens to be worse than in the original go-round. Which is a pity because what is really called for, here and in public discussion generally, is truth and clarity, not screeching.

Parliament Hill security, not convoy protesters, blocked truck relocation plan

A plan between City of Ottawa officials and Freedom Convoy organizers to relocate trucks away from residential areas was blocked by the Parliamentary Protective Service, not protesters. Ottawa city manager Steve Kanellakos was cross-examined about a text message exchange he had with convoy lawyer Keith Wilson regarding a three-day plan to concentrate trucks on Wellington St. with the remainder leaving the city.

COVID-19 UPDATES

Boston University Researchers Develop COVID Strain With 80 Percent Kill Rate in Mice

The researchers noted, however, that mice and human immune systems differ greatly. As a result, if the Omicron-S hybrid were to infect humans, it would be unlikely to be as deadly, they noted, adding that the breed of mice that was used is more dissimilar to humans than other breeds subjected to laboratory testing. However, when they infected human cells with the Omicron-S variant, they found that it was five times more infectious than the Omicron strain of COVID-19.

Fauci Can't Whitewash His Disastrous Legacy

Fauci now portrays himself as a humble public health official who had merely shared scientific advice and information with decision-makers. This self-serving depiction conveniently ignores his fearmongering, his coaxing and lying to manipulate behavior and his partisan scheming. Governors regularly leaned on Fauci's positions as justification for their unconstitutional shutdowns of churches, economic lockdowns and school closures. And Fauci praised them for it.

PayPal reverses policy to fine customers for misinformation, claims mistake

PayPal's Acceptable Use Policy update originally said users would be subject to penalties of $2,500 per violation. THE ENVIRONMENT

Floods and droughts are nothing new

There is nothing unusual about today's floods, fires, droughts, homelessness, and hunger — they have always been part of the human story. But satellite technology allows us to track them better, and our worldwide media revel in disaster reporting, bringing tearfully tragic scenes into every living room, every night. Population growth means that more people are affected by weather extremes, but there is no evidence that floods and droughts are getting worse.

The natural weather cycles between floods and famines will continue. Every generation leaves a legacy for its descendants — our ancestors bequeathed us stored water and productive farmland. Today's green religion demonizes dams and farmers, so our descendants will suffer more than we suffer now. Pinched bellies are worse than wet feet.

Diane Weber Bederman on the Bryan McClain Show

Bryan McClain and I talked about the attack on our children by Woke Progressives. Their bullying of our children that leads to depression. The victim/victimhood ideology that leads to increased mental illness. Attacks on white children-revenge racism. Drag Queens in our schools. The push for transgender surgeries. I unequivocally deny the existence of transgender and all of us need to fight against these attacks on our children and families by government, media, doctors, and school. We spoke about the need to speak up and defend family and freedom.

Transgenderism, the left's offensive against Western Civilization

Who among us could have guessed a few years back that today gender ideology would be the clearest, most divisive matter of contention separating the American left from the right? To those reasonably grounded in reality, the notion that gender is fluid, that a Supreme Court Justice would be unable to define the word "woman," that men can give birth, and that children can and should be mutilated if they are confused about their own gender identity is not only sheer lunacy, it is barbaric.

Biden Signs Executive Order Designed to Unleash "Transhumanist Hell" on America and the World

Humanity will prevail against these anti-human eugenicist monsters because we have living souls and are created in the image of a Holy God with individual free wills. Those who take the bait of the globalists and submit to the world system will in essence be handing over their humanity in exchange for empty promises of safety and security. They will become trans-humans, thus foregoing, at some point, their ability to connect with God. That's a very big step and a decision that will face every human being sooner or later as this technology ramps up. Your very soul will depend on it. This is a spiritual battle.

Score One for True the Vote

True the Vote, which seeks to ensure election integrity, investigated the company, Konnech, and was sued by it, alleging unauthorized access and "distribution of material gotten through such access." It claimed in its complaint that "All of Konnech's U.S. customer data is secured and stored exclusively on protected computers located within the United States."

It seems the FBI knew about this and did nothing. Kanekoa reports that True the Vote brought this to the attention of the FBI's Washington, D.C. office but that office "covered up this national security issue rather than investigating why Chinese nationals are programming U.S. election software." If True the Vote's claim is true, it's another black mark against an agency which already had garnered more than enough of them to warrant its dissolution.

The Great Disrupter crashed the DC Establishment party, and they hate him for it

Trump demonstrated that the executive office functions best when run with business acumen, a trait he's honed throughout his entire life, prior to becoming the 45th president. Washington hates getting things done and hates being held accountable, which is a stark difference between the public and private sectors. When you work in government or any major institution outside corporate America, you don't have skin in the game, and your job is never at risk. No wonder these political leeches erupted in hysteria with Trump's election — the Great Disrupter crashed their never-ending party, and they hate him for it.

Washington's Double Legal Standards

When Hillary Clinton's emails were found to contain classified information, some marked at the highest levels of classification, the FBI did not raid her home in Chappaqua, New York. They did not overturn her office or closets when classified emails turned up that she had not sent back to the government or when she wiped the data on her personal server with BleachBit, which meant the government would never know the full extent of the documents Clinton kept. Why was she treated differently by the FBI?

Civilization Cannot Exist Without Righteous Retribution

Our society must relearn how to say "No" again. No to crime. No violence. No to anarchy. And it is not hard – we know how to do it. Rudy Giuliani did it in New York City, turning the town of "Taxi Driver" and "Death Wish" into the safe, clean, and prosperous envy of the world. Here's how. It's simple. It's not rocket science. You enforce the law, arrest criminals, prosecute them, and put them in jail for some time commensurate with their crimes. If they commit many crimes, they go to jail for many years. This has the advantage of making them not be around normal people to commit more crimes.

How Stalin starved Ukraine

It was a genocide that Russia continues to cover up to this day. In Ukraine, it's become known as "the Holodomor," meaning "death by starvation." It was a genocide carried out by a dictator who wanted to keep Ukraine under his control and who would do anything to keep it covered up for decades. In the 1930s, Soviet leaders under Joseph Stalin engineered a famine that killed millions as they sought to consolidate agricultural power. In Ukraine, they used additional force as they sought to clamp down on a burgeoning Ukrainian national identity. There, at least 4 million died.
