Skipping the Press Gallery dinner? Pierre, what are you thinking? By Rex Murphy

Wow. And if I may — Wow-plus! This is a bombshell. Cancel the Emergencies Act inquiry. Forget the U.K.’s dance into madness. We have a problem here in Canada. Pierre Poilievre will not be attending the Parliamentary Press Gallery dinner!

You were doing so well. The crowds. The stinging impressive assaults on the monumentally misguided carbon tax. Classy performance as always during question period. Standing up for the real working class. Equal or better standing than the PM in the polls. All was going your way. Now this. You are not going? Not going to attend the institutional highlight of this once great Dominion's entire political year?

Ratio'd | Justin Trudeau is laughing at you

On Saturday night in Ottawa, Prime Minister Justin Trudeau joined his buddies in the Parliamentary Press Gallery to laugh at the plight of Canadians facing unprecedented attacks on their freedoms and record high inflation. It's evident from the types of "jokes" that Trudeau made that the target of these "jokes" is us.

Justice Delayed & Justice Denied: Peckford Charter Challenge Thrown Out

Canadians have every right to be concerned about the partiality of our justice system. A liberal appointee (and also potential donor) presided over the Peckford case. A liberal appointee (and lawyer from Trudeau Sr's old law firm) is presiding over the Public Order Emergency Commission. A liberal donor and failed candidate (endorsed by the Prime Minister himself) presided over and denied Tamara Lich's bail.

Canadian leader considers dropping COVID lockdown charges, apologizes to unvaccinated

'I am deeply sorry,' the newly-minted Premier Danielle Smith said of unvaccinated Canadians who fought discrimination. The premier of Alberta, Canada, said she is working on a plan to pardon residents who were fined or arrested over breaking coronavirus protocols, and apologized to unvaccinated Canadians who faced "discrimination."

In Defence of the West: Smith Takes a Stand Against Ottawa's Allegiance to a Globalist Agenda

The regulatory and political blockade of Canadian industry due to the fixation on the globalist agenda of the great global warming NGO-environmental-WEF cartel has had one province in the main bear the cost. And for what? For what measurable purpose other than the glamour of climate conference attendance and gush reporting from some of the international press. Given Canada's miniscule contribution to the supposed problem—I stress supposed—of global warming, what shutting down our industries will do to or for world temperatures in 2050 or 2100 is next to nil, and a fantasy to boot.

For that fantasy, Western provinces have been estranged, a necessary industry crippled, and the national economy put at risk.

Canadian MD, Dr. Roger Hodkinson: 20 million dead worldwide from the Clot Shots

Who in his right mind wants to be famous, just to be eaten alive, by these psychopathic DemocRAT cannibals? All Trump associates have been targeted by the Deep State, starting with General Flynn to Alex Jones to Steve Bannon. Only despicable totalitarian Bolsheviks engage in the illegal practice of targeting political opponents. These are the darkest souled monsters and they could not do it without their supporters and enablers.

Disposable Humans

No country on earth, perhaps, has traveled further down this road than Canada, which has allowed assisted suicide since 2016. Last year, according to an October 11 article by Rupa Subramanya, assisted suicide accounted for more than 3% of deaths in Canada, and nearly 5% in Quebec and British Columbia. ("Progressive Vancouver Island," Subramanya writes, "is unofficially known as the 'assisted-death capital of the world.'") More and more Canadians under age 45 are choosing to die in this fashion, and doctors have increasingly broadened the range of people whom they consider acceptable candidates for death. Next year, Canada's federal government "is scheduled to expand the pool of eligible suicide-seekers to include the mentally ill and 'mature minors.'"

<https://www.frontpagemag.com/disposable-humans/>

How Canada became a world leader in euthanasia

Its assisted-suicide laws are becoming ever more sinister. In six short years, Canada has shown that the initial justification for MAID – people's freedom to alleviate their own suffering from terminal illness – is only a more palatable precursor to something much darker. What we're seeing in Canada today is what happens when a country convinces itself that lethal injections are a normal part of healthcare. It is what happens when death is treated as a solution to life's problems. This anti-human movement must be resisted.

MPs Hear Veteran's Recollection of Call Where He Was Offered Assisted Death When Asking for Health Care

According to Mark Meincke, a retired corporal, the veteran questioned the VAC agent over the phone about why he was being offered assisted death without having first expressed interest in it. "She said, 'Oh, just by the way, if up the road you have suicidal thoughts ... it's better than blowing your brains out against the wall,'" Meincke said. "That is what he told me she said."

Before the initial phone call, Meincke said the veteran had been "feeling good about life" and wasn't struggling with suicidal thoughts.

Canada: The World's Most Comfortable Gulag

Justin Trudeau, as some believe, may be a nasty piece of work but he is not, in himself, to be condemned solely. He is the people's doppelgänger, a projection of the vaxxed majority who believe in the validity of his despotic measures and proclamations, who care nothing for the Constitution, are content to have their rights and liberties gradually erased, have no objection to becoming digitized, and have learned to hate as virulently as does the prime minister.

C3RF Update, 28 Oct 2022 – Fight's on

This week's update remarks on the absence of "separation of powers" on the Canadian governance scene as its judiciary lines up with a powerful executive/ legislative juggernaut to relieve Canadians of their Charter rights and freedoms. It's hard to see it any other way as federal courts use the "moot" excuse to stiff-arm attempts to get to the bottom of how vaccine travel mandates could be so arbitrarily cycled on and off. Are they just making it easy for a growing number of citizens to recognize abuses of power and declare, "fight's on"?

<https://www.canadiancitizens.org/single-post/c3rf-update-28-oct-2022-fight-s-on>

And as an added bonus, here's in "In Hot" interview with Cecil Lyon. Cecil was part of a new slate of elected Law Society of Ontario board members who fought back against Diversity, Inclusivity and Equity ideologies to keep the concept of "the rule of law" in place.

SOGI-123: Child Abuse and Families Torn Apart

Cults Separate and Turn Minors Against Their Parents

The State, in a cult-like psychological attack, is filling children's heads with radical ideologies and turning them against their parents. "The nuclear family is at the center of the Judeo-Christian Western civilization and it is under assault." Every single cult's first attack is on parental authority (the Soviet Union, the Hitler Youth). The message is, "don't trust your family, trust the cult leader." Parental authority is a major barrier to totalitarianism. The bigger the government the smaller the parent. The bigger the parent the smaller the government.

Bravo – Canada Free Press!

CFP A Beacon of Freedom in a Sea of Censorship

When heavy-weight hitters over at Google chose to hurl all their weight on tiny independent Canada Free Press (CFP), the closest we could get to the peace of the Almighty's majestic Atlantic Ocean was in our dreams.

Then last May a certain prime minister saw us pulling up roots and moving house and office some 1,100 miles from Ontario to the sea-bound Coast of beautiful Nova Scotia—having chosen to 'get out of Dodge' when the PM threatened to freeze the bank accounts of hard-working Freedom Convoy truckers—and their supporters—of which CFP was one.

We held fast to the concept of being a beacon of freedom in a sea of censorship, and thanks to our long-time loyal readers, we keep that concept intact.

FREEDOM CONVOY

Justin Trudeau's case against the Freedom Convoy falls on its face

Let's recall that the Trudeau government claimed that the Freedom Convoy protests in Ottawa were so dangerous that they imperilled public safety and this necessitated the use of draconian and emergency powers, that have only once been previously invoked in peacetime. The hearings give us an opportunity to test Trudeau's claim, and so far the government's rationale has all but fallen flat on its face.

Emergencies Act inquiry shows full extent of incompetence in nation's capital

The law defines a public order emergency as “an emergency that arises from threats to the security of Canada and that is so serious as to be a national emergency.” We haven’t heard evidence that this actually happened in Ottawa yet, mostly we’ve heard about municipal incompetence, which is hardly an excuse for suspending civil liberties and freezing bank accounts.

Violence During Freedom Convoy Was Mostly ‘Felt’ and Not Actual, Says Ottawa Police Interim Chief

Ottawa Police Service (OPS) interim Chief Steve Bell said on Monday that when he refers to violence during the Freedom Convoy protest it’s mostly violence that was “felt” by the community and not as defined per the Criminal Code. Brendan Miller, the lawyer representing the protesters, also asked Bell if, when he mentions violence, he refers to violence under Section 2 of the CSIS Act, which pertains to terrorism and sabotage. Bell said it wasn’t the case.

RCMP Commissioner Said Not All Legal Tools Yet Exhausted, Hours Before Feds Used Emergencies Act on Convoy

In public remarks on different occasions, Public Safety Minister Marco Mendicino had said that it was “on the advice of law enforcement” that the government invoked the act. Both RCMP’s Lucki and OPS’s Bell later told lawmakers in parliamentary committees that they hadn’t asked the government to use the act. Both did welcome the additional enforcement powers the tool brought after it was invoked, however.

The commission heard earlier from the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) that in their view the use of the Emergencies Act wasn’t required to deal with the protests.

City lawyer nixed Jim Watson's plan to seize and sell convoy trucks

Days after Ottawa Mayor Jim Watson mused about seizing and selling trucks towed from the convoy protest, the City of Ottawa's lawyer stepped in to say it wasn't possible. A Feb. 24 memo from city solicitor David White to Watson and Ottawa city councillors said the city has "no existing legal authority" to permanently seize people's trucks, regardless of the reason.

Day 7 recap of Emergencies Act hearings: Emergencies Act not required: OPP officer

Chief Superintendent Carson Parady, who was one of the most senior law enforcement officers involved in the effort during the Freedom Convoy, told Commission lawyers that the Emergencies Act invocation wasn't required to tow vehicles and that existing police strategies in place prior to invoking the act would have been sufficient to clear the protests within the same time period.

Day 8 Recap of Emergencies Act hearings | Ottawa police had plan ready without Emergencies Act

On Day 8 of the Emergencies Act hearings Ottawa interim police chief Steve Bell confirmed that a plan was in place and "ready to be executed" without requiring the Emergencies Act. While being questioned from Convoy lawyer Brendan Miller, Bell told the commission that although the Emergencies Act "created a stable platform" for Ottawa police, there was a plan and it was ready to be executed without the never-before-used Act.

Day 9 Recap of Emergencies Act hearings | Feds had plan to meet truckers before invoking Emergencies Act

On Day 9 of the Emergencies Act hearings, evidence was presented to the commission showing that Prime Minister Justin Trudeau's cabinet had a plan for the federal government to meet with protesters the same day that he invoked the extraordinary powers to quash the protests.

Day 10 Recap of Emergencies Act hearings | Yet another senior officer says Act wasn't required

Under questioning from Justice Centre for Constitutional Freedoms lawyer Rob Kittredge, Ottawa Police Service (OPS) Superintendent Robert Bernier, who was tasked as the incident commander for the Freedom Convoy, said that the Emergencies Act was not required to tow vehicles and that officers would have been able to clear the protests without the act.

The Fauci/ Facebook Collusion That Sold COVID-19 Worldwide as a Pandemic

The entire world is about to see Tony Fauci's mask torn off, proving that he is no scientist, but only a liar, cheat and a Facebook colluder. Globalists making final push for depopulated one-world order: How do we resist?

Before you can “build back better,” you must eliminate every trace of the old world order. Burn it all down. Destroy families. Destroy economies. Destroy currencies. Make people suffer. And the most critical component of their deconstruction plan is depopulation.

Everything you see going on in geo-politics today is meant to drive depopulation. From LGBTQ mania (they don't reproduce) and food shortages to endless genetically engineered viruses and the fanatical religious fervor for ever-expanding abortion rights, and the introduction of deadly “vaccines” — it all points toward one thing – more death.

BIG TECH & THE MEDIA

Elon Musk and the great fear of free speech

The most striking thing about Musk and Twitter is the demented reaction to it. Musk himself is not going to singlehandedly restore the hard fought-for liberty to utter. It will take more than online ventures by a contrarian billionaire to turn back the tide of censorship, cancellation and social shaming for wrong-think that have become such a key and horrid feature of Anglo-American political life. Musk's plan for Twitter is sensible, not revolutionary. It is 'important to the future of civilisation to have a common digital town square, where a wide range of beliefs can be debated in a healthy manner, without resorting to violence', he said in his note of reassurance to advertisers yesterday. That town square should not be a 'hellscape', he said, where 'anything can be said with no consequences'. A town square, you say? With people talking? Fetch my smelling salts.

The MSM Threatens Democracy

For years, the MSM has stretched the boundaries of credibility to make the absurd fit the narrative. They've been caught telling us falsehoods that were obvious falsehoods. They created a narrative bubble, which is now bursting. Six out of ten Americans know they've been lying to us. They're now seen as the propaganda ministry of the Left and the political party the Left controls.

The MSM is a threat to our democracy because it undermined the checks and balances necessary to keep our government accountable to us. Self-governance -- our representative democracy -- fails without that accountability.

Michelle Malkin Signs Off: 'An Ending, but Not the End'

It's not just "fake news" that plagues us. It's sold-out, skewed "news" that serves corporate and global special interests, not the truth. It's lazy, soulless, dumbed-down opinion writing from hacks who care nothing about the craft. It's shady influence operations masquerading as "journalism." It's information-suppression disguised as "misinformation" monitoring.

I remain thankful to every single reader over the last three decades, and I will be eternally inspired by all the patriots I've profiled over the years — especially the ordinary parents, whistleblowers, citizen journalists and activists who have sacrificed far more than I for their truth-seeking and truth-telling.

The Rebirth of Mao Zedong

Meet the most dangerous man on earth. Xi Jinping, not Vladimir Putin, is America's greatest enemy. Americans, because of our western, Euro-centric history, have been slow to catch on that world power is shifting to Asia, and our knowledge of that continent is woefully inadequate. We need to wake up soon to the greatest threat we face—a new Mao Zedong, who now has control of perhaps the largest military in the world and a huge economy. Mao didn't have that. Xi does.

Remember The 'Chinese Century'? Sorry, Comrades, Xi Just Killed It

With Xi Jinping's stunning shift back into Maoist totalitarianism, China is destined to become an economic mess once again. China's opening to the world economy, particularly to the U.S. and Europe, now looks to be over. A new communist dark age will soon descend. Faced with the sudden shock of what's to come, China's financial markets crashed on Monday, as investors realized that it's no longer the promised land but now a prison-house economy in decline.

On issues that count, the Left insults middle-class critics as it destroys them, pushing green, inflationary, open-borders, racially obsessed, and elitist agendas without voter support. In pathetic attempts to distract the electorate to support policies contrary to their interests, it grows hysterical in demanding late-term abortion, mainstreaming transgenderism in all its drag manifestations, and racist indoctrination, insulting all who demur as bigots and racists.

The best solution to the migrant – read “Muslim migrant” – crisis, is not to spread Muslims all over rural France, where they will simply multiply, and make life hell for the local French of modest means, but to end Muslim immigration, to immediately enforce all expulsion orders for those in the country illegally, and to pass legislation to make sure that, after serving their sentences, “foreign” (Muslim) criminals are immediately sent back to their countries of origin.

“Me and God”

I consider myself Christian, at least in terms of applying its moral lessons. Though I am not a regular communicant, I have no argument with God. I marvel at the miracle of creation and of things that cannot be explained by science. I think of the soul and of man’s ability to reason, and I think of the great difference between man and other animals – abilities to discern and infer, which seem impossible to ascribe solely to Darwin’s theory of natural selection. I do not see God as something tangible. He is a spirit within each of us, who helps us to understand right from wrong. That gift is critical, for inside each of us, as well, lurks the capacity for evil. And sometimes evil wins the tug-of-war for our souls, as the world has seen (and is seeing) to its horror. We should acknowledge this tension and try to follow God’s lead – toward compassion, love, respect, and tolerance.
