Trudeau Empowers Muslim Canada with Special Interest Appointment

Prime Minister Justin Trudeau announced the appointment of a special representative on combating Islamophobia that will advise the federal government on how to better fight discrimination against the Muslim community. A spokesperson from Diversity and Inclusion Minister Ahmed Hussen's office told CBC News she will sit for a four-year term and that her office will have a budget of $5.6 million. The budget says that funding would cover the first five years of the office's operations."

Poillievre SLAMS Trudeau: Everything feels broken

In a press conference, Conservative leader Pierre Poillievre slams Prime minister Justin Trudeau for his failed leadership on a number of issues such as inflation, carbon taxes, immigration, the opioid crisis, medically assisted death, and the rising crime rate.

MEP Christine Anderson is coming to Canada to meet freedom protesters with Andrew Lawton German MEP Christine Anderson has made a name for herself in Canada from her outspoken support of the Freedom Convoy and opposition to Justin Trudeau. Next month, she's touring Canada and meeting with politicians, though she says the real motivation for the trip is to meet with some of the "bravest people in the world" — the supporters of the Freedom Convoy. In this edition of The Andrew Lawton Show, Andrew talks to Christine about the freedom movement, European and Canadian politics, and why she's taking a stand.

Trudeau's 'just transition' just a big government plan to mop up his own mess

If anyone needed any more evidence that Prime Minister Justin Trudeau has replaced Canada's dreams of becoming an energy superpower with the religious-like fanaticism of global warming zealotry, one only needs to look to his apparent rejection of Japan's request for natural gas supplies and details about the government's forthcoming "just transition" legislation.

Canada's Terrorists Are Canada's Problem.

This is the backstory about a federal court ruling last week that should finally force Prime Minister Justin Trudeau to live up to his high-drama 2015 election proclamation that "a Canadian is a Canadian is a Canadian."

The Kurds should not be made to look after Canada's jihadist adventurers. At long last, a federal judge is holding the Trudeau government's feet to the fire. Last week's decision by Justice Henry Brown slammed the door on Ottawa's last-ditch attempt to run away from the constitutional issues involved. That's the subject of my column this week. We'll see if the Trudeau government figures a way to climb through a window.

Trudeau Government to Repatriate ISIS Terrorist "Jihadi" Jack Letts.

Thus far, mainstream media has exposed the 22 citizens, said to be women and children of known Islamic terrorists. Conveniently, they have left out the Jack Letts component of the story. Jack Letts is not a Canadian citizen, and has never even visited Canada. Justin Trudeau's terrorist-friendly government should be called out for this behaviour. Canada's foreign ministry said "the safety and security of Canadians is our government's top priority". And permitting a non-Canadian radical Islamic terrorist to move to our country is example of prioritizing the safety of Canadians, eh?

A much-needed investigation of the Trudeau-McKinsey contracts

Under Trudeau, the controversial firm received a thirty-fold increase in funding when compared to the previous Harper government. There remain many unanswered questions – including the measurable impact of the contracts, the extent of McKinsey's involvement in the government and why couldn't the public service fulfill the services contracted out to the consulting firm.

No Surprise the 'Squeamish Inquisition' Wants to Stop Peterson's Ottawa Talk

I see there's another gaggle of busybody woke worry warts trying to cancel Jordan Peterson. There's a spiderweb of left-wing organizations in Ottawa whose tender sensibilities are already afire with the thought of Dr. Peterson giving one of his world-class, world-celebrated talks in our nation's capital, the site of the Parliament Buildings—ostensibly emblems and monuments to the most fundamental of freedoms, those of thought and speech. Don't Look Now, It's the Squeamish Inquisition

CBC cited for misleading Canadians yet again

Canada's taxpayer-funded state broadcaster has been cited yet again for misleading viewers over a false story published about the Catholic church and a residential school survivor fund. This is not the first time the CBC has been cited for misleading readers. In October the network was cited for baselessly linking the Freedom Convoy during a live segment to the Russian government.

Ottawa's Speech-Restricting Legislation Built on Same Foundation That Aims to Silence Peterson, Rowling

Thoughts and words that once were viewed as merely contentious or disagreeable are now subjected to the most severe opprobrium from segments of society previously deemed radical but which are now termed "moderate." The moderates—the sort of people who like to make their beds every morning—are now the extremists. Resist and you risk being branded an ally of all the evils listed above.

'Power to the people!': Elon Musk on Rebel News' citizen journalism

"Maybe [Elon Musk] is on to something after all," wrote Rebel's Ezra Levant, highlighting three points: citizen journalism; long-form videos published directly to Twitter; and holding the oligarchs at the World Economic Forum to account because of the regime media's refusal to do so. Elon Musk, who now owns the platform, recognized Rebel's contributions to citizen journalism, prompting him to respond, "Power to the people!"

FREEDOM CONVOY

On First Anniversary of Freedom Convoy, Protesters Tell Their Stories

"It was the most patriotic thing I've ever experienced, and I think it really showed that there is an army willing to fight for freedom. And it gave people hope and what they need to keep going, but I think it's far from over." "But who stood up for Canadians' rights and for our country? It was the blue-collar truckers. ... It was the truckers who took matters into their own hands in sacrifice. If we lived in an honest country, ... there would be monuments to those people. But instead, we have forgotten one of the greatest and most authentic uprisings in Canadian history."

OPP Intelligence Head Concerned with False Allegations of Extremism by Politicians, Media Against Convoy Protesters

"When I read accounts that the state of Russia had something to do with it, or that this was a result of American influence, either financially or ideologically, or that Donald Trump was behind it, or that it was un-Canadian, or that the people participating were un-Canadian and that they were not Canadian views and they were extremists, I found it to be problematic.” “The lack of violent crime was shocking. ... Even the arrests and charges, considering the whole thing in totality—I think there were 10 charges for violent crimes, six of which were against police officers,” he said.

BMO CEO Addresses Suggestion to Designate Convoy Protesters as ‘Terrorists’ to Freeze Accounts

The CEO of Canadian bank BMO addressed on Jan. 19 the revelation that he had recommended to the finance minister that Freedom Convoy protesters be designated as “terrorists” to facilitate the freezing of their financial accounts last year. “I would never call the convoy protesters terrorists. What was said is that in order for the banks to be helpful, there are certain protocols,” Darryl White told True North’s Andrew Lawton reporting from Davos, Switzerland.

Under the heading “Darryl/BMO” in Freeland’s note is written “label them as terrorists.”

Why Bitcoin matters to the Freedom Convoy movement

As sensational as the rhetoric and the deplorable tactics used by the Canadian government was, a big part of this story was the almost $1.2 million in bitcoin raised by anonymous members of the global bitcoin community and the only money that could not be blocked by the Canadian government. The government failed to stop the distribution of bitcoin donations directly to the truckers, because bitcoin is not something that governments can control.

Time Shows That The ‘Paranoid’ People Were Correct About COVID

Six million dead worldwide, the entire world economy ravaged, trust in our institution destroyed, and all because cavalier gain-of-function researchers in Wuhan, financed and assisted by the U.S. government, created and accidentally (at least, we hope) unleashed its chimeric Frankenstein pathogen into the world—all in the name of science. Many of the world’s worst have done less damage in the name of genocide and conquest.

Africa Is Starkly Unvaccinated, And Starkly Unvanquished By COVID

Africa led the way and inspires the world. Are the politicians and “public health experts” of the rest of the world humble enough to admit their grotesque errors, even crimes, and to learn from the peoples of the African nations, their experiences and lessons on handling a pandemic?

Part of the African continent’s success is no doubt due to a fortunate accident of microbiology, infectious diseases, pharmacology and immunology. It so happens that two of the most effective treatments for COVID, ivermectin and hydroxychloroquine, are also routine prophylactic weekly medicines throughout equatorial Africa, because they happen to be known for a half-century as the most effective, applicable and safest anti-parasite medications.

Lockdowns Were Counterterrorism, Not Public Health

In a public health crisis like the Covid-19 pandemic, you'd think the world's top epidemiologists and specialists in pandemic management and public health, including Dr. Scott Atlas, Dr. John Ioannidis, Dr. Jay Bhattacharya, among many others, would be consulted. But if a counter-terrorism agenda is secretly being implemented, such specialists would pose a serious threat by exposing the public health harms.

Stop the Pandemic Treaty WHO Power Grab

After the pandemic broke out, President Donald Trump had cut American ties with the WHO, blaming it for "mismanaging and covering up the spread" of Covid-19, siding with communist China, and failing to hold the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) responsible for the deaths and economic devastation. It took guts and forcefulness to do that. But Biden reversed that immediately on assuming the presidency, rejoining the WHO, and assigning the discredited Dr. Anthony Fauci to represent the country on its executive committee.

The WHO: Our New Overlords

Although COVID-19 is now a distant memory for many, another pandemic, we're told, is just around the corner. When it comes, the WHO may very well be in a position to order you, dear reader, to do exactly what it wants, when it wants. If these amendments are made in May, resistance may prove to be utterly futile.

THE GREAT RESET

Let Them Eat Bugs!

Many insects feed on decaying matter, so using them as a source of nutrition can present dangers. Noxious bacteria such as E. coli, H. pylori, and some varieties of Staphylococcus, found in many insects, can cause serious illnesses. Insects also host viruses, parasites, fungi, and other contaminants. They bear pesticides, toxic metals, and other chemicals picked up from the environment, all of which could poison us and damage our digestive tract. Lastly, stingers, wings, spines, and other features can pose a choking hazard. Production techniques may be engineered to remove them, but a proportion of hard insect parts is bound to remain and may prove hazardous.

Censorship, Mass Surveillance and Bugs: World Economic Forum vs. The Free World

Behind every "build back better" inch of the WEF's "great reset" of the global economy is some corporate titan, banking behemoth, power-hungry politician, bureaucratic chieftain, or plain old aristocrat making money or gaining influence from the multitude of secret transactions buttressing the whole philanthropic charade. Stick, meet carrot. They may fly on private jets, but at the end of the day, the World Economic Forum cabal is just the greatest collection of thugs organized crime has ever managed to put together in the same room, orchestrating the most effective schemes ever devised to force formerly free peoples to do exactly what they say.

Has Globalism Met Its Waterloo?

It is also time for Americans to take action against the Globalist agenda at the local and the federal level. When citizens act on their own or in concert with others in a few common sense ways, we can affect course corrections in local school boards, in the city, county, and state governments, as well as on the national level, such as stopping U.S. government officials from participating in the WEF globalist agenda and holding their feet to the fire of restoring and upholding Constitutional rule, which would solve so many of our problems. Here is an eight-point plan to get started:

<https://www.frontpagemag.com/has-globalism-met-its-waterloo/>

Age of Lies, Age of Truth

Look, there's a reason why George Soros and Bill Gates didn't go. And there's a reason why Elon Musk has been openly denouncing the WEF. Public opinion has dramatically turned against the ruling class, and nothing embodies the ruling class better than the WEF. Their much-heralded Great Reset that would bring public and private together hasn't turned out well. The masses are extremely angry. All over the world. The WEF is the temporary focal point of this anger. This is the crucial battle of our times.

Cash Out

I cannot say that I look forward greatly to the time when every purchase we make is traceable by them, which is to say the authorities, who will make use of the information in any way they please. Among other things, they will be able to compare our expenditure with our income, and since they think that all money really belongs to them, and any left to us is by their grace and favor, they will be able to tighten their control over us. In addition, they will be able to estimate our ideological position from the purchases we make and penalize us for them whenever they deem it necessary or convenient. Good records make for efficient persecution.

BIG TECH & THE MEDIA

James O’Keefe: A Truth Seeker in an Age of Media Bias

“In order to get the information to the public, we have to use surreptitious means and we have to be guerrilla in how we distribute the information because we’re handicapped; because we’re facing overwhelming forces that are trying to shut us down, suppress the truth, and propagandize the people. The only way to distribute the truth in these bizarre times is to use these techniques,” O’Keefe said.

FREE SPEECH

Hated Speech

We all know that if the students of color were performing better in math and astrophysics than the white students, the same people claiming that fields math and astrophysics are racist would be extolling the virtues of merit-based scholarship in those disciplines. No one is claiming that the individualism, exceptionalism, perfectionism and meritocracy which defines the NBA and the NFL are racist. These types of speech laws are not designed to protect anyone. They are designed to give the people in power the ability to shut down speech they don’t like so they can control outcomes in their favor. The people who want to control our speech only want to hear what they agree with.

<https://www.objectivityistheobjective.com/post/hated-speech>

The WEF, hate speech, and virtue-signaling

"European Commission for Values and Transparency" stated that the United States will "soon" have "illegal hate speech laws. Stelter and Sulzberger on a panel bemoaning "disinformation"? That would be akin to putting Michael Moore and Joy Behar on a panel chronicling the evils of obesity. Would the WEF ask Vladimir Putin and Xi Jinping to head a panel on international relations and "how to treat one's neighbors"? On second thought, in United Nations fashion, it probably would.

THE ENVIRONMENT

An Inconvenient Truth for Environmentalists: Offshore Wind Endangers Whales

Fourteen recent whale deaths—namely in New Jersey—have prompted calls to cease offshore wind exploration to determine if whale deaths stem from activities like underwater geotechnical testing. Why destroy the ocean to save the planet? It's paradoxical. Worse, it undermines true conservation practices that undergird environmental stewardship. NOAA Fisheries must treat whale mortality events with the seriousness they deserve and not conceal data to assuage Big Wind.

Huge wind turbines — taller than the Statue of Liberty — are toppling over in a 'rash' of incidents

The steel tower, which once stood hundreds of feet tall, was buckled in half, and the turbine blades, whose rotation took the machine higher than the Statue of Liberty, were splayed across the wheat field below. The turbine, made by General Electric Co., had been in operation less than a year. Another GE turbine of the same model collapsed in Colorado a few days later. That wind farm's owner-operator, NextEra Energy Inc., later attributed it to a blade flaw and said it and GE had taken steps to prevent future mishaps. The instances are part of a rash of recent wind turbine malfunctions across the US and Europe, ranging from failures of key components to full collapses.

THE UNITED STATES

The Hard Truth About January 6

The January 6th protest was milder than any of the hundreds of Black Lives Matter riots the summer before, and led to no serious destruction of Capitol artifacts. But the Democrats en masse pretended to be horrified. They denounced the protest as an "armed insurrection" and compared it to Pearl Harbor and 9/11 and other enemy attacks on the United States which resulted in thousands of deaths.

January 6 Was the Worst Incident of Police Brutality Since Civil Rights Era

A growing body of evidence suggests neither stupidity nor incompetence can justify what now appears to be the worst incident of police brutality against political protesters since the civil rights era. After two years of watching cherry-picked video clips produced by the Department of Justice and the news media to depict Trump supporters as the violent aggressors on January 6, the public now has an opportunity to see what really happened thanks to police body camera footage released at trial. It's ugly—and clearly malicious.

January 6th, 2021. Four of us died that day. We all know about Ashli Babbitt- but there were three more. One of the others was Rosanne Boyland, and she was one of us. Thirty-four years old. An American citizen. A woman, a sister, a beloved aunt, a friend. A daughter, a Daddy's girl. A recovered addict who dedicated her life to helping others fight their addictions. Fisherwoman, camper, an amateur chef. A first-time voter. A Trump Supporter. A hopeful human being who felt like her presence on January 6th was important – she came to Washington D.C. from Kenesaw, Georgia- marching and smiling... under the optimistic impression her voice would be heard.

How America is becoming like a Muslim country

Whenever Christians throughout the Muslim world attempt to repair, renovate, or build a church — all of which contradict the draconian, anti-Christian dictates of Islamic law — the same events follow: local Muslims riot and rampage, and local (Muslim) officials conclude that the only way to prevent "angry youth" from acts of violence is to ban the church — which is then seen and treated as a "threat" to security. And now this same "logic" has made it to America.

Join Forces and Fight for Freedom

After the unprecedented repression during the past three years, those who drove the catastrophe must be held to account. Governments, which ignored the broader interests of society, of the young, the poor. Scientists, who silently went along, justifying what they knew to be wrong, smearing and cancelling their more honest and outspoken colleagues. Media and social media corporations, which actively prevented free exchange of opinions and pushed to deprive us of human dignity.

We must all join forces in the fight for the right to express ourselves, to think, to doubt, to come together in the public square to discuss, reason and shape society. This battle will not be easy, and there are many indications that it will soon intensify. But surrender is not an option, for what is at stake is a future fitting for humanity. We must fight for it in brotherhood, armed with compassion, courage and integrity.

In the wake of the installation of a felonious vassal of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) as president of Brazil and what has the hallmarks of a "Reichstag fire" event in that country's legislature and supreme court, an alarming fact is now unmistakable: Every major nation in the Western hemisphere is controlled by a Marxist government.

Requiem for Jacinda Ardern's Political Life

Ardern introduced rule by regulation. Adopting the enabling model favoured by fascists in the 1930s, her government has empowered authorities to tell us all what to do, when to stay at home, and where not to go. The courts, the Human Rights Commission, and the broadcast regulators have all followed the government line meticulously, which had a devastating effect on business, families, communities, and professions. To cement her policies, Ardern introduced massive government funding of our media and broadcasters.

Why Preserve a 'World Order' without Freedom?

To create and sustain a "free world," citizens actually have to be willing to stand up to their governments and say, "No, you cannot do that; you do not have that power; now go away." The harsher and more unjust governments become toward their citizens, the more likely movements for freedom take hold. When scrappy underdogs prevail over unbeatable foes and "turn the world upside-down," they do so with tremendous help from their tormentors' hubris.
